N. F. Codfish News.

The foreign markets remain much the same as last week. There is still a considerable quantity of last year's catch on hand and an effort will be made to dispose of this before the new fish is ready though most of the Exporters we are glad to say, have disposed of theirs. The fish importing countries are now making every effort to catch as much fish as possible themselves for there is no doubt about the fact that food produced from the sea is becoming more popular every day. A Hull merchant now suggests that one way to improve the trade in the old country in general would be a tax on foreign fish. During the week small quantities of new fish arrived in the capital from adjacent places of St. John's East. It is well made and looks splendid, in spite of the warm weather that has prevailed of late. It is next to impossible to predict what the catch will be. Many of the reports received from the outports are to the effect that fish is plentiful while others are to the effect that very little is doing. We have accurate information from several points. We are pleased to be able to state that every care is being taken with the cure, the fishermen now fully realizing that a high class article must be produced if we are to compete successfully with the foreign fish.—St. John's Trade Review.

N. S. FISHERMAN ARRIVES IN HUB

After being adrift five days, during which he suffered from hunger and thirst, Joseph Sampson, reached Boston yesterday and was taken in charge by officials of the British Consulate, who arranged to send him to his home in Halifax, where he has a wife and two children.

He was a member of the crew of the British fishing schooner White-way, which went to the bottom last Saturday afternoon. According to the story told by Sampson, the White-way in command of Capt. William McDonald of Halifax, and carrying a crew of 10 men, had been fishing on the northerly edge Western Bank when the wind breezed up and the old vessel opened up forward and soon filled with water. The crew put over the three dories and jumped into them.

Sampson said he went below to save his clothes, and when he returned to the deck the vessel was sinking. One dory remained on the deck and he pushed it overboard and got into it just as the White-way took her final plunge.

Sampson on Wednesday morning was picked up by the fishing schooner Mary P. Goulart, which landed him at Provincetown Thursday.

He does not know the fate of the other members of the crew, although he thinks they must have been picked up by some other vessel.

Sampson will probably leave today for home.

LOCAL RECEIPTS FAIR TODAY

SEVERAL SEINERS HAVE LANDED GOOD FARES SINCE YESTERDAY MORNING.

Fresh fish receipts were fair over the week-end, several seiners finding a local market for their fish, which went to split and storage. One of the boats took her fare to Boston, selling this morning. The offshore dragger Gertrude Parker arrived direct from the grounds this morning with 53,000 pounds of fresh haddock for the General Seafoods corporation. Two gill netters lifted Saturday, but neither boat was out yesterday.
